Workshop Speaker Bio

Anthony L. Rostain, MD
Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Pediatrics, School of Medicine & Director, Adult Development Disorders Unit, University of Pennsylvania & co-director, The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia's Pediatric Neuropsychiatry Program, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Saturday, October 16, 2011 -
“Misuse and Abuse of Stimulant Medications Among College Students”
“Here We Are, Now Teach Us!” - College Students with ADHD

Anthony L. Rostain, MD is an Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Pediatrics at the University Of Pennsylvania School Of Medicine. Dr. Rostain's clinical focus is in "developmental neuropsychiatry" which includes patients with Attention-Deficit / Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Asperger's Syndrome and High Functioning Autism (AS/HFA), Tourette Syndrome (TS), Learning Disabilities (verbal and nonverbal) and related social learning disorders.

Dr. Rostain is the Director of the Adult Development Disorders Unit at the University of Pennsylvania which includes the Adult ADHD Treatment and Research Program and the Adult Social Learning Disorders Program. He is also Co-Director of The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia's Pediatric Neuropsychiatry Program. Dr. Rostain also coauthored a book on Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy for Adult ADHD.